

WATER CANADA

Hidden Resources Groundwater Mapping Takes Flight

Groundbreakers:
People, Ideas,
and Research

Treatment 2011:
Industry Predictions

SPECIAL INSERT
Water's Next
Celebrates Canadian Excellence

FEATURES

9 Friend and Foe

Icy winter conditions call for road salt, but our groundwater pays the price.
BY BRAD DENSMORE

12 Seeking What's Hidden

Denmark's mapping solutions could be useful here in Canada.
BY BILL BROWN

28 Infesting Wisely

Using bugs to assess water quality.
BY KELLY COWPER

30 A Long and Winding Road

Integrated watershed management is a journey, not a destination.
BY ANDREW MCCAMMON

32 Reuse It or Lose It

Edmonton's NAIT has big plans for greywater.
BY RYAN DEVLIN

36 Fitting the Bill

Bill S-11 needs to take a closer look at capacity and funding for First Nations.
BY NANCY GOUCHER

GROUNDBREAKERS

18 A look at some of Canada's forward-thinking research and its leaders.
BY KERRY FREEK AND TINA CHU

SPECIAL INSERT

22 Water's Next
A celebration of Canadian water excellence.

COLUMNS

26 To Tap and Back
KEVIN WONG and JOHN NICHOLSON predict the future of the water industry.

42 H2Opinion

How Western thought impedes good decisions around water management.
BY CYNTHIA WESLEY-ESQUIMAUX

DEPARTMENTS

5 Editor's Note
Cause for celebration.
BY KERRY FREEK

6 Letters
Our neighbours to the south experience funding problems, too.

34 News
What's happening in the water industry.

40 Events
A cross-country report launch, a high-level panel on water monitoring, and a panda.

