

WATER CANADA

Beyond the Pipe

The Softer Side of Wet Weather Infrastructure

Could a Bioeconomy
Be the Solution to Lake Winnipeg's Woes?

Northern Mines Put Water Supplies at Risk

Exclusive:
Expert Roundtable
on the Great Lakes

12

16

24

FEATURES

- 8 Industry Roundtable
Water Canada’s exclusive expert panel hashes out the some of the challenges around Great Lakes management.
- 12 Bio or Bust
Can Manitoba make cleaning up Lake Winnipeg a win-win?
BY KERRY FREEK
- 30 Back to the Source
Alberta makes innovative moves for returning treated effluent to the natural environment.
BY SHANE SPARKS
- 34 A Path to Water Discovery
Evergreen Brick Works’ majestic new installation teaches visitors about their “watershed address.”
BY KERRY FREEK
- 40 Cleaning Up Infected Waters
Scientists look for a way to combat antibacterial resistance.
BY SYLVIE HILL

INFRASTRUCTURE

- 16 Pond, Tunnel, and Pipe
Toronto manages its wet weather business.
BY SAUL CHERNOS
- 20 Damage Control
As extreme weather events grow more frequent, cities such as Edmonton are implementing low impact development measures as part of a strategy of resilience.
BY KEVIN MERCER
- 24 New and Improved
A combination of trenchless rehab and open-cut replacements gives new life to Victoria’s steel watermain.

REGIONAL FOCUS: NORTHERN CANADA

- 26 A Legacy of Risk
Managing the environmental costs of mining operations in Canada’s Arctic.
BY BRAD DENSMORE

COLUMNS

- 36 Fine Print
Hydrological extremes and Quebec’s Civil Protection Act.
BY HUGO TREMBLAY

42 To Tap and Back

KEVIN WONG examines the implications of Bill C-36 for the drinking water treatment industry.

50 H2Opinion

Getting real about urban sustainability.
BY ALEX AYLETT

DEPARTMENTS

- 5 Editor’s Note
It’s raining, it’s pouring.
BY KERRY FREEK
- 6 Feedback
Readers comment on our last issue.
- 7 Front
Fluoride: Yay or nay? You tell us.
- 43 News
New positions, awards, and name changes.
- 46 Events
Oil sands execs turn their attention to water, metering experts meet in Toronto, and Canada convenes with India and Israel.

30

34

50